01. Okinawa and the University of the Ryukyus

Okinawa Prefecture

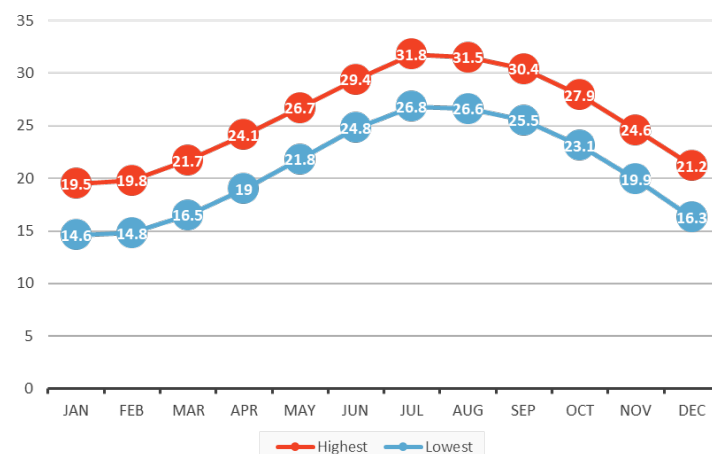

Okinawa Prefecture, the southernmost prefecture of Japan, comprises approximately 691 islands. The prefecture's main island, the island of Okinawa, has a population of about 1.4 million. Formerly known as the Ryukyu Kingdom, Okinawa has a history of intimate cultural exchange with China, Oceania, and countries in Southeast Asia, leading to the creation of a distinctive culture rich with unique arts, rituals and cuisine.

Today, Okinawa continues to take advantage of its historical and geographical position to encourage economic, cultural, and educational interaction in Asia and the Pacific region, fulfilling an important role in international exchange as the "southern gate to Japan."

As the only subtropical region in Japan, Okinawa is blessed with a warm climate throughout the year and experiences relatively low seasonal and day/night temperature variation. Okinawa is known both within and outside of Japan as a place with a brilliant range of flora and fauna, emerald-blue seas, white beaches and amazing coral reefs. It is home to many endemic plants and animals and is recognized as an international tourist destination, with increasing numbers of visitors each year.

Monthly Temperatures in Okinawa (°C)

University of the Ryukyus

The University of the Ryukyus was founded after the end of World War II in May 1950, when Okinawa was under American military administration. The University of the Ryukyus gained its present status as a national university when Okinawa was returned to Japan in May 1972.

Faculties and Graduate Schools

Currently, the University composes 7 faculties and 8 graduate schools and has more than 8,000 students. The University of the Ryukyus includes the University Library, the University Hospital, the Tropical Biosphere Research Center, the Global Education Center, the Lifelong Education and Research Center, the University Education Center, the Subtropical Fields Science Center, and a University-affiliated junior high school and elementary school.

Global Education Center

The Global Education Center provides courses for studying Japanese, as well as the history and culture of Japan and Okinawa. The Global Education Center also conducts career counseling for international students seeking employment opportunities in Japan. Most study abroad students belong to the Global Education Center. Please refer to page 13 for more information on the different courses offered at the Center and the University.

The University Library

The University of the Ryukyus has two libraries, a main one in the Senbaru Campus and an Annex Library in the Uehara Campus. Both libraries have a joint depository of about one million books and host a wide range of electronic journals. The lending period of library books is two weeks, up to a maximum of 10 books for undergraduate students and 15 books for graduate students. Besides books and magazines, there are also computer rooms and group study areas in the libraries.

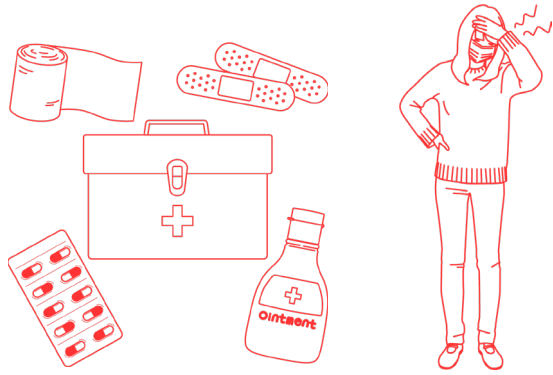

Opening Hours

During School Terms: (Weekdays) 8:00 - 21:40 (Sat., Sun. & Holidays) 10:00 - 20:00
Spring/Summer/Winter Vacation: 10:00 - 20:00
*The University Library is closed from March 1st to March 31st.

University Health Center

In the case of minor illness or injury, students can go to the University Health Center for simple medical attention and obtain medication. Students may also visit the Health Center for medical consultation before deciding if medical treatment at the hospital is necessary. In addition to general health counseling, the University Health Center also conducts regular health examinations for international students.

Cafeteria and University Co-op Store

The cafeteria-style dining halls open at 7:50 and serve breakfast. Okinawa soba and other menus unique to Okinawa are also available. In addition to lunch boxes and light bites, stationery and daily necessities, books can also be purchased at the University Co-op Store.

Opening Hours

	Weekdays	Saturdays	Sundays & Public Holidays

Extracurricular Activities

The University of the Ryukyus has many extra-curricular clubs that students may participate in. There are about 60 sports-related clubs such as judo, kendo, karate, archery, soccer and rugby, as well as 40 culture and arts-related clubs where one can learn about Okinawa's traditional performing arts and pursue interests such as photography and music. Through participation in these clubs, international students can make new friends and engage in cultural exchange with Japanese students. In addition to these activities, there are also events such as off-campus tours, international student festivals and international exchanges with the local community.

- Study of Okinawan Culture I・II

(Classes held in English)

- Japanese History in International Co-learning
- Japanese Culture in International Co-learning
- Okinawan History in Intercultural Collaborative Learning
- Okinawan Culture in Intercultural Collaborative Learning

The Japan-Okinawa Studies Course is for students who wish to learn the history and culture of Japan and Okinawa while developing their Japanese language skills at the same time.

Students can learn and develop cross-cultural communication skills by interacting with exchange students from all over the world. Japanese classes are available from beginner to advanced levels. There are general Japanese classes that develop four skills — reading, listening, speaking and writing. Students can learn Japanese at a pace that best suits their needs, even if they have never learnt the language before.

History and culture classes are offered in both Japanese and English, and with frequent opportunities for fieldwork. Students can also take classes attended primarily by Japanese students that are aligned to their majors and/or areas of interests.

Who will Benefit

Students who are interested in Japan and Okinawa, who wish to deepen their understanding of the Japanese language within a diverse learning environment, acquire cross-cultural communication skills, and undertake roles as "ambassadors" to Japan and Okinawa.

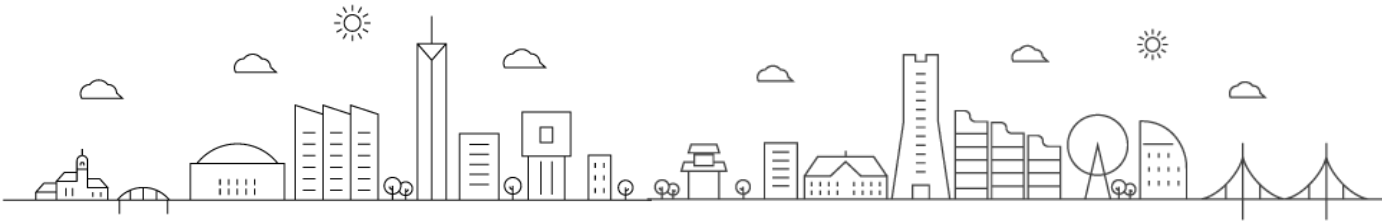

Learning Goals

- (1) Mastering the Japanese language, as well as the history and culture of Japan and Okinawa, so as to allow students to acquire knowledge that can be leveraged in their research activities and future careers.
- (2) Acquiring cross-cultural communication skills by studying in a diverse learning environment.

Language Requirements

No special requirements for Japanese and English.
*Daily conversational level in Japanese or English is desirable.

Okinawan Culture Class

This class will introduce you to a basic knowledge of Okinawan culture and its historical contexts. Research topics will be discussed as a class with concept maps prepared in advance. Lectures, videos, field trips, in-class activities, dance and music will be provided in addition to discourse on class insights through group discussion, research and presentations. Some of the cultural experiences offered are as follows:
Kasuri weaving, sanshin, eisa, clay shisa making workshop, traditional Okinawan dance and theater.

Okinawan culture classes are given in Japanese, and there is also an Okinawan culture class offered in English ("Okinawan Culture in Intercultural Collaborative Learning"). Students can select the class that best fits their needs.

03. Course Description—Glocal Leadership Course

Okinawa to the World!

This program aims to develop problem solving leadership for various “glocal” issues through collaborative learning with Japanese students and the local community.

Leadership in the Time of Diversity

This program aims to inculcate in students the ability to locate one’s role in the changing diversity of today’s world by training capacities such as multi-cultural understanding, self-motivation, grassroots leadership as well as the ability to realize one’s life goals and objectives.

Champ-lingual (Language Diversity)

Master Japanese language at a pace that best suits your level of proficiency and learning objectives while taking project-based learning courses with international co-learning components. Content is offered in diverse languages, with opportunities for collaboration with Japanese students.

【Requirements for course completion】

Detailed information on required classes will be provided during the course guidance session after the student arrives in Japan. Students must obtain a total of 14 or more credits each semester.

【Main Offered Classes】

Course Model for Beginner Level

In addition to learning Japanese, students in the Glocal Leadership Course will participate in projects such as beach cleanups and the University’s Glocal Festival, which is mutually organized with Japanese students and local high school students. The course also includes plans to offer an internship program .

Class Magazine @ Seminar on Global Engagement Seminar 2019

Focus

Glocal Engagement Seminar

In this course, international students, Japanese students, and local citizens collaborate on regional development and share their findings and outcomes through the “Glocal Festival”.

In the festival, participants create presentations and exhibitions of diverse cultural specialties that include regional languages, traditional practices, religions, social issues, food, music, performances, games etc. Discussions and presentations are managed “champ-lingually”, mixing use of diverse languages including Japanese and English, remaining true to the spirit of “leaving no one behind”. Seminar activities are aimed at nurturing budding glocal leadership.

03. Course Description—Japanese Language Teacher Training Course

This course is for students who wish to contribute actively to the global community as Japanese language teachers.

Students will be able to develop their language education skills by studying subjects related to their majors while understanding and practicing multilingualism and multiculturalism with Japanese students. Lectures are provided systematically and thematically, enabling students to learn about the language as well pedagogical methods on teaching Japanese as a foreign language. Practicums are also available in the second semester.

Students can also take other academic major-related subjects and language classes if they meet requirements for completion.

【Requirements for course completion】

Students must obtain a total of 14 or more credits each semester.

Focus

Classes on Japanese Teaching Methods and Japanese Teaching Practicums

Acquire the knowledge and the skills necessary to be a Japanese language teacher in a systematically. After learning essential theories on Japanese language education (direct and indirect teaching methods), students take turns to assume roles as teachers and model in mock lessons in the class on Japanese Teaching Methods. In the "Language Training Practicum," each student chooses a language to teach and designs a course. They will conduct a readiness survey, needs assessment, and placement test before developing the course syllabus, planning lessons, and eventually teaching course contents.

Our alumni in the Japanese language education minor are actively undertaking roles as Japanese language teachers abroad and in Japan.

03. Course Description—Major Studies Course

The Major Studies Course is provided to students who wish delve into deeper learning about their field of specialization.

Undergraduate exchange students attend lectures related to their majors, while graduate students conduct research and attend topic-centered study groups known widely in Japanese universities as “seminars”. By working together on research with Japanese students of the same field, students will be able to develop new ideas and flexible thinking.

As most undergraduate classes are taught in Japanese, students must possess at least JLPT N2 proficiency (or the equivalent). Students will choose classes based on consultation with their academic advisors upon enrollment.

05. Scholarship

Notes:

Students who have been selected to receive the scholarships will be notified when they are informed of their acceptance into the RISE program. However, those who have not been selected for the scholarship are eligible to participate in the program as privately-funded students.

The following is information for AY2024 and may be subject to change.*

JASSO Japan Student Services Organization Scholarship

Monthly Stipend: 80,000 yen
Period: Up to 11 months
(depending on the period of acceptance)

JASSO's purpose is to provide support to international students in order to improve standards of education and research, as well as to promote mutual friendship and goodwill.

Applicant Qualifications and Conditions

To be eligible to apply for the JASSO scholarship, students must be in regular enrollment at their respective home universities. The following criteria must also be met.

- (1) The applicant must hold nationality of a country that has diplomatic relations with Japan.
- (2) The applicant must not be a citizen of Japan at the time of application.
- (3) The student's home university must have an exchange program agreement with the University of the Ryukyus.
- (4) The student is of good character and possesses outstanding academic performance at his/her home university. (According to JASSO requirements, the student's GPA must be 2.30 or above on a three point scale.)
- (5) The student has difficulty funding his/her studies in Japan for financial reasons.
- (6) The student will resume his/her studies or be conferred an academic degree at his/her home university after concluding his/her period of study in Japan.
- (7) The student must be able to attain "Student" visa status for his/her period of study in Japan.
- (8) If the student is due to receive financial aid and/or scholarships from other organizations while in Japan, the total amount of such financial aid must not exceed 80,000 yen per month.

As of 2024, only students in the "Glocal Leadership Course" and "Major Studies Course (including Japanese Language and Culture Studies Course)", and students who receive funding from the University's Inter-University Exchange Project (p.25) will be eligible to apply for the JASSO Scholarship.

Living Expenses

The costs of living in Okinawa are relatively low compared to other cities in Japan. However, students require approximately 80,000 yen a month to cover personal expenses. Students are advised to make adequate preparations for living arrangements in the case that they do not qualify for a scholarship. Due to the demands of the program schedule, students are also advised not to take on part-time work. As students will not be able to open a bank account immediately after their arrival in Okinawa, it is necessary for them to have sufficient cash to pay for two to three months' worth of living expenses, or have a credit card that can be used overseas.

National Health Insurance

The National Health Insurance program provides financial assistance in the case of illness or injury. The annual insurance premium is approximately 16,000 yen and must be paid in full. Up to 70% of medical fees will be covered by the insurance program when insurance cards are presented at the time of treatment. The remaining 30% of medical costs will be borne by the student. All exchange students are required to join the National Health Insurance program immediately after arriving in Japan.

Accident Insurance

The University recommends all exchange students to enroll in accident insurance to protect and prepare themselves against accidents. Accident insurance consists of two components: (1) Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research (PAS) (valid for unexpected accidents that occur when students are engaged in regular curricular activities, school events, extracurricular activities and when students are on school premises or commuting to and from such activities) and, (2) Liability Insurance Coupled With PAS (students enrolled in this insurance scheme are entitled to seek damages for accidents caused to third persons such as bodily injuries and destruction of personal property when students engaged in regular curricular activities, school events, extracurricular activities and when students are on school premises or commuting to and from such activities). The total annual insurance premium is approximately 1,340 yen.
